About ICTE-UQ
The University of Queensland’s Institute of Continuing & TESOL Education (ICTE-UQ) has been delivering teacher training and professional development programs for university and government partners in Japan for close to thirty years.

With many Japanese universities now strategically looking to internationalise their curriculum and expand their global reach and linkages, ICTE-UQ has designed and delivers intensive Content and Language Integrated Learning (CLIL) training programs for academic teaching staff.

About CLIL
CLIL is an internationally recognised approach for educators, from non English speaking backgrounds, who teach, or want to teach curriculum using English as the medium of instruction from a non English speaking background. ICTE-UQ CLIL training courses are becoming the program of choice for universities who want to increase the number, expand the range, and enhance the quality of courses delivered in English.

The CLIL workshop will provide participants the opportunity to experience what the CLIL course includes and talk to an experienced CLIL teacher trainer.

Workshop Presenter
ICTE-UQ TESOL Assistant Director of Studies, Philippa Coleman has more than 25 years of varied experience as an educational manager, teacher trainer and TESOL language teacher gained in Asian, Latin American, European, Middle Eastern and Australian contexts.

For the first time the Institute of Continuing & TESOL Education (ICTE-UQ) is pleased to be able to deliver a series of workshops designed exclusively for academic teaching staff from universities in Japan.
